

Mohan Venkatachalam is a Professor of Accounting at the Fuqua School of Business, Duke University, and is the Faculty Director for the Dubai Location of Duke's Global MBA program. Professor Venkatachalam received his Ph.D. from the University of Iowa in 1996 and was granted the Chartered Accountancy degree (equivalent of a CPA) by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India in 1987. He has worked for several years as an Accountant and Internal Auditor in India and the Middle East.

Professor Venkatachalam was a member of the faculty at Stanford University prior to joining Duke, and has taught Financial Accounting, Financial Analysis and Executive Compensation at the University of Iowa, Stanford University and Duke University. His research interests span several areas including implications of financial and nonfinancial metrics for compensation and valuation, effect of accounting disclosures on valuation, derivatives and corporate governance issues. His research is cross-disciplinary in that it overlaps with other business disciplines, particularly, Finance and Strategy. His most recent work involves the role of verbal and nonverbal managerial communication in financial markets. His research has appeared in several academic journals including Journal of Business, Journal of Accounting Research, Journal of Accounting and Economics, The Accounting Review, Contemporary Accounting Research, Review of Accounting Studies, and the Journal of Accounting, Auditing and Finance. Currently, he serves on the Editorial Board of the Accounting Review, and Contemporary Accounting Research.