

Dr. Hengjie Ai is Assistant Professor of Finance at the Fuqua School of Business, Duke University. His research spans Financial Economics, Macroeconomics, and Economic Theory. His recent publication “Information Quality and Long Run Risk: Asset Pricing Implications”, appeared in Journal of Finance. His current work focuses on the valuation and measurement of intangible capital and its implications on the cross-section of stock returns. He teaches “Derivatives” in the MBA program and “Introduction to Finance” in the Ph.D. program at the Fuqua School of Business.

Professor Ai received his Ph.D. in Economics from the University of Minnesota in 2006 and joined the faculty in the finance area in Fuqua School of Business since then.