

Prof. Ravi Bansal is J.B.Fuqua Professor of Finance at the Fuqua School of Business at DukeUniversity, and Research Associate, NBER. He earned his Ph.D. from Carnegie MellonUniversity in 1990.

Prof. Bansal is a leader in the field of Financial Economics. His research spans asset pricing, liquidity, and climate change. He has published in leading journals such as the Journal of Political Economy, Journal of Finance, Review of Financial Studies, Journal of International Economics, and Review of Economic Studies among others. His work on Long-Run Risks won the prestigious Smith-Breeden award presented by the American Finance Association. Many of his PhD students have placed at leading academic institutions and in the risk management industry. He teaches courses in asset pricing, global economics, and investments and is a finalist for the best teacher award in the day-time MBA program. He also teaches extensively in the executive education program.