

Business School To Award 242 Master's Degrees

Duke University's Fuqua School of Business will award 242 master's degrees in business administration when it graduates its 17th class in ceremonies Saturday and Sunday.

Edward A. Horrigan Jr., vice chairman of the board of RJR Nabisco Inc., will deliver the commencement address on May 7 during ceremonies that will begin at 5 p.m. in Page Auditorium on Duke's West Campus. The school's activities are part of Duke's commencement weekend.

The Fuqua School's class of '88 chose classmate Darryl T. Banks as its designated speaker. Banks, a 1986 graduate of North Carolina Central University, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Banks of Edenton.

The graduating class voted to honor Dr. Campbell Harvey, with the Teacher of the Year Award. Harvey is an assistant professor of finance who joined the Fuqua faculty in 1986 after receiving his doctorate from the University of Chicago.

Duke Provost Phillip A. Griffiths will also speak during the ceremonies, as will Dean Thomas F. Keller and David L. Miller, associate dean and director of MBA programs.

J.B. Fuqua, chairman of the board of Fuqua Industries Inc. and the man for whom the Fuqua School was named, will also be on the stage to participate in graduation activities.

The MBA candidates will participate in university graduation ceremonies on Sunday at Wallace Wade Stadium, and will then participate in a reception at the Fuqua School.
