Duke survey: Health care law to crimp US hiring

WRAL Wednesday 11th December, 2013

Durham, N.C. - Corporate financial chiefs say they expect to reduce hiring and also move more jobs to part-time status as a result of the Affordable Care Act, according to a new survey from Duke University and CFO Magazine. Many companies also are considering a reduction in health care benefits for employees. "The results were startling to us. This will significantly impact employment," said Campbell Harvey, a professor of finance at Duke's Fuqua School of Business. "I think the people who drafted the bill probably never anticipated such a negative effect on employment, especially in a time when..."
