Fundamentals of negative factors:

1 Data S & P (Standard & Poor's) released Tuesday showed U.S. November S & P/CS20 major cities annual house price index rose 13.71 percent, the highest since February 2006 a new high, the expected growth of 13.4%, before correction for growth 13.61%; November S & P/CS10 major cities house price index annual rate of 13.83 percent, an increase of 13.61% before the correction.

2 U.S. Department of Commerce (DOC) released a report Tuesday that the United States in December the total value of building permits amendments to 991,000, the initial value of 986,000. December building permits fell a revised 2.6% decline 3% of the initial value.

3 U.S. Conference Board (Conference Board) report released on Tuesday, the country's January consumer confidence index rose sharply, and the highest since August to the highest value, showing the American public's confidence in the economy continues to rise. Sub-indicators, consumer present situation index hit its highest level since April 2008 come.

4 U.S. Richmond Fed (Richmond Fed) report released Tuesday showed U.S. January Richmond Fed manufacturing index for the month of amendments 12, 12 and 13. The description of the manufacturing index above zero in the expansion trend, below zero means that the contraction in the manufacturing sector.

5 Report Redbook Research (Redbook Research) released on Tuesday showed, January 25, the week Redbook retail sales grew by 3.2% per annum, while the data released last week was an increase of 3.1%.

Expectation:

Duke University professor Campbell Harvey said from the very long term, the real price of gold is basically continuous. "We think the real price should be around $ 800 / ounce."

Harvey also mentioned the relationship between interest rates and gold prices, "if we look at recent history, between bond yields and gold have a great relationship," he said, "Data shows that if the interest rate becomes 4%, which is not unreasonable , then gold will drop to $ 1000 / oz bottom. "

South Africa's Standard Bank (Standard Bank) on Tuesday in a report that since January 2014 period, subject to Asia, especially China's strong physical gold demand to support the price of gold to rise slightly to above $ 1,250. But strategic point of view, once into February, the kinetic energy of the gold rally will begin to decline, the resistance area at $ 1249/70. Therefore recommend short rallies.
